

9HOTEL MONTPARNASSE

Nestled into a corner of the 14th arrondissement, Rue Raymond-Losserand has kept the arty spirit inherited from the time when the neighborhood was frequented by Modigliani, Picasso, and Chagall. A little removed from bobo Montparnasse, it offers a Paris of deliciously provincial charm. This is where, just a few months ago, 9Hotel Montparnasse opened. A boutique design hotel—but without going over the top about it—there are 40 rooms in a range of refreshing colors. The interiors, designed by Jordi Veciana and Skye Maunsell, deliver the very now mix of cozy with 1950s furniture. A relaxing library, a lounge bar, and a garden that means you wake to the sound of birdsong ... a moment of hip tranquility in the heart of Paris.

76 Rue Raymond-Losserand, Paris 14, www.le9hotel.com

